

Finance

Weil's Finance team is composed of experienced lawyers in our Banking & Finance, Capital Markets, and Structured Finance & Derivatives practices in many of the world's key financial centers, including New York, London, Paris, Frankfurt and Hong Kong. These practices work in close coordination with one another across borders to advise corporate borrowers/issuers, private equity sponsors, financial institutions, and financial intermediaries on a diverse array of financing transactions.

Banking & Finance

Weil's broad-based Banking & Finance practice advises corporate borrowers, financial institutions and private equity sponsors on many of the world's most significant and innovative financing transactions. With a solid understanding of our clients' businesses, we provide seamless service on highly complex financings, offering true international deal execution and local law advice in many of the world's key jurisdictions.

Structured Finance & Derivatives

Weil's Structured Finance and Derivatives practice and its partners have a long track record of developing cutting-edge structures at the forefront of the marketplace and are prized by clients for being able to bring a fresh perspective to novel issues. We have been involved in a wide variety of transactions relating to the securitization of a range of asset classes, and we have experience in the establishment of CLO/CDO vehicles. Our derivatives practice encompasses equity, credit, energy, commodity, real property, interest rate and currency derivatives.
